I started a journey in search of beauty
To find something with myriad forms purity,
I looked about in the museum called earth
A place where wise said beauty had no dearth.

I dove into the magnificent oceans, so blue.
but the "beauty blue' was not so true!
The shy sky never gave us a cue without the sky, the ocean had no true blue

At night appeared the brazen moon, shining bright, but I did not fall for it that soon,
look at the moon, she is filled with scars.
she was just trying to look beautiful staying that far.

My journey took me around the globe.
by the end of it I had lost hope.
why is it so difficult to end the quest?
This question just gave me no rest.

The long search took me nowhere.
I closed my eyes and said, 'this is not fair!'
when my eyes opened, the world just turned over.
I found a beauty that I just couldn't get over

Finally, there was a reason to smile.
I felt like she just came out of exile,
This search left me gratified!
Oh, mother earth! You are a "BEAUTY PERSONIFIED"
